GO-biz recognizes CalRecycle and the Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Kudos goes to both the Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board and CalRecycle for their ongoing efforts to find and fix areas of regulatory overlap when permitting dairy digesters. The Central Valley Regional Water Board and CalRecycle are combining forces to develop a single permit application to serve as a first step for both agencies. This example of interagency collaboration should help streamline application processing.

“Streamlining processes not only takes hard work but requires collaboration --and these agencies have shown it,” said Paul Martin, Deputy Director of Permit Assistance at Go-Biz. “We would like to recognize them as two of California’s Streamlining Superstars.”
